A Gripping Memoir By Bernard Kerik

Bernard Kerik's memoir, My Life Serving America And Protecting Its Empire City, is a fascinating and revealing look into the life and career of one of New York City's most controversial police commissioners. Kerik served as commissioner under Mayor Rudy Giuliani from 2000 to 2001, and he played a key role in the city's response to the September 11 attacks.

In his book, Kerik provides a firsthand account of his life and career, from his early days as a police officer to his time as commissioner. He also discusses his controversial departure from the NYPD, which was marred by allegations of corruption and ethical misconduct.

Kerik's memoir is a valuable resource for anyone interested in the history of the NYPD, the September 11 attacks, or the life and career of Bernard

Kerik himself. The book is also a fascinating read for anyone interested in the human side of law enforcement.

About the Author

Bernard Kerik is a retired police officer and author. He served as New York City Police Commissioner from 2000 to 2001. Kerik was born in Newark, New Jersey, and he grew up in Paterson, New Jersey. He joined the NYPD in 1986, and he quickly rose through the ranks. In 1994, he was appointed chief of the department's Organized Crime Control Bureau. In 2000, he was appointed commissioner by Mayor Rudy Giuliani.

Kerik's tenure as commissioner was marked by controversy. He was criticized for his handling of the Amadou Diallo shooting, and he was also accused of corruption and ethical misconduct. In 2004, he was indicted on federal corruption charges. He was convicted in 2006 and sentenced to 48 months in prison. He was released from prison in 2010.

After his release from prison, Kerik wrote a memoir, My Life Serving America And Protecting Its Empire City. The book was published in 2011.
